Thomson Jay : The Law of Mental Medicine: The Correlation of the Facts of Psychology and Histology in Their Relation to Mental Therapeutics (Classic Reprint) before purchasing it in order to gage whether or not it would be worth my time, and all praised The Law of Mental Medicine: The Correlation of the Facts of Psychology and

Histology in Their Relation to Mental Therapeutics (Classic Reprint):

Part I. contains nothing new to the scientific world, except, perhaps, the method of treatment. It pertains solely to the psychological principles of mental medicine. These were outlined in my first work, entitled The Law of Psychic Phenomena, ten years ago, and they are now taught in every reputable school of suggestive therapeutics. The reader will find, however, that the subject is by no means exhausted, and that the law of suggestion is the most important factor in man's mental make-up. In Part II. the fact is for the first time recognized that no hypothesis can possibly embrace a complete science of mental therapeutics that fails to take cognizance of those facts of physiology and histology which pertain to the subject-matter.
